This is the code: public partial class Forum_Employee :

```
System.Web.UI.Page {
    protected void Page_Load(object sender, EventArgs e) { List persons = Person.GetPersons(); string employees = string.Empty;
        foreach (Person p in persons) { employees += p.EmployeeID + " " + p.LastName + " " +
                p.FirstName + " " + p.MiddleName + " " + p.EmployeeID
    }

Encrypt HTML Pro Crack +

Encrypt HTML Pro is a handy and straightforward application that comes in the form of a wizard, similar with the app installer, and provides simple means to secure your code and important websites from being opened and edited by other people. Select the items that need encryption. It's wrapped in an old yet user-friendly interface that comes with the several steps that should be made in a tree structure, each one displaying its corresponding options in plain sight. The next and back buttons help you browse through the stages, while at the bottom, each function is shortly explained. The first node is a welcome message that describes the main purpose of the app, while in the second, you can browse for the records, and add them to the list. The supported formats are HTML, HTM, SHTML, CSS, ASP, and PHP. You either import a single file or a whole directory. Choose what attributes the outputs should have. In the second stage, you have to pick the desired encryption method between entire item, only the body content, or a partial section. Plus, you can select the HTML charset from ISO, WINDOWS, UTF, or UNICODE. Specific tags may be added to an ignore list, in order for the tool to know what to skip. The third stage is dedicated to the selection of the file properties, such as disable the right mouse, the page printing, text selection, drag and drop function, as well as show a warning, remove redundant characters, and break out of frameset. Quick protection process. It's possible to deactivate the IE image toolbar, smart tags, make the link expire immediately, along with page caching, and insertion of custom empty lines before the code. Once everything is set accordingly with your preferences, the Protect button starts the operation, and once finished you can test the outputs to view if the result is fine. On an ending note. The bottom line is that Encrypt HTML Pro is a useful and intuitive program designed to offer a simple and quick way to encrypt your essential source code and protect websites from being accessed and modified. Pros: Simple and helpful website protection. Cons: Entirely free. 3. Encryption Scripts. Encryption Scripts is a useful and quite simple to use program that has a number of convenient attributes to make a website difficult to view if left in plain view. It helps you add a password protection to the main website, and features a text editor that creates
