Gta5/update/x64/dlcpacks/mpsum/dlc.rpf Also when trying to install the moddlc1kits, I can't drag and drop the.rpf files. I've tried many things and it didn't work. All the links I found on the internet with someone else that had the same problem that I'm having are broken. So, how can I install the dlc kits? A: A mod that I've installed before when I had the same issue as you was I think this. There is a video on Youtube. TLDR: Put the dlcpacks folder in the ""Grand Theft Auto V\mods"" folder. Then to load up the game, open up the ""Statements From The City Files"" and hit X. I got the video to work with this method. Hopefully this video will help someone else who gets this error! i couldnt find that file anymore after i did this. And im a little confused as to where that file goes after you do that. thanks if anyone has a answer. I am new to this so sorry for the bad english but i hope you get my point. I have attached a screenshot of what i mean Screenshot: A: Copy the file you need into your mod folder. Then either Move the files with drag and drop onto the mod folder or Right click in the mod folder and choose "Open Mod Folder" and move the files in the folder using Windows Explorer. In some cases that's not enough. If you are unable to move/copy the files, you can try creating a new mod folder (make sure the GTA V directory is included) and copying the files over to that mod folder. However, you are creating an archive (zip or rar) where the files are compressed into a single file. If you want to use the individual files, you'll need to extract them from the archive. Commodity prices for corn, oats, barley, wheat, rice, soybean meal, soybeans, and feeder pigs finished in the current marketing year through December were lower than those for comparable products finished in the prior year, based on the latest U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) ERS analysis of the latest farm operating costs. The USDA has published the operating costs for grain and oilseeds at farm level, and feeder pig, dairy, and egg producers have been encouraged by this information. The lower farm prices for the 2017 marketing year compared to the 2016 marketing year are a positive signal for farmers and agribusinesses seeking to purchase. While commodity prices for grain and oilseeds have declined from their 2016 marketing year levels, the acreage planted for grain has increased, according to USDA projections. There has also been an increase in acres planted for cotton, which is an acreage boost that has implications for the price of the commodity and other agricultural commodities. Coronavirus (COVID-19) has also had an impact on U.S. agri-markets. As the latest USDA report indicates, producers should take into account the impacts of this pandemic on crop prices. When using USDA data for classifying a commodity as in or out of season, decisions should be made based on the recommended harvest calendar date, which is not necessarily when the commodity is at its peak.
