Audible Alerts (2022)

This plugin is to audible alert you when you get a message from a specific buddy. It plays an audible message with the person's name using eSpeak. You can set the audible message to be just a few words or all the entire message. You can also select how long the audio notification is on screen. After it's on the screen for the given length, the audio notification automatically fades out. You can also set the audible message to play at random intervals. Installation: Place this script in your scripts folder. Copy the 'audible-alerts.pl' plugin into your plugins folder. Unzip the plugin, and place it in your plugins folder. Check to make sure that the latest version of the plugin is selected. To enable the plugin, open Pidgin. Changes: 1.01.0 released February 2007. - use underscores to separate words. - changed the name to 'Audible Alerts'. - changed the default installation location. Sincerely, Oskar Bak P.S. relates generally to the field of signal detection and, more particularly, to the detection of signals with high signal-to-noise ratios in the presence of noise. 2.

Background Art In many communication applications, it is desirable to be able to detect weak signals embedded in noisy communications channels. For example, the Federal Communications Commission has promulgated the 800 MHz PCS (Personal Communication Service) service to provide mobile users with new capabilities for voice and data communications. In the service, a single base station is to serve as the communication center for up to 50,000 users simultaneously using the same frequency. To provide this type of system, the United States has adopted a stringent mobile radio frequency spectrum allocation policy that will limit channel utilization for PCS to frequencies between 824 MHz and 894 MHz. PCS users will be able to employ a 1.25 MHz band centered at 824 MHz to transmit
