If I have a sentence like: "This is a very long sentence" and I want to match it against a string like: "Another very long sentence" I want the string to match if the part: "very long" is in it. What's the most efficient way to do this? A: One of the simplest would be to use regular expressions: if (preg_match('/very long/i', 'This is a very long sentence')) echo'match'; If you really want it to be efficient, use an associative array: $words = array('this', 'is', 'a', 'very', 'long', 'sentence'); $pattern = implode('|',

Topographical distribution of HLA-DR antigens on human lymphocytes. The topographical distribution of HLA-DR antigens on peripheral blood lymphocytes has been investigated by means of immunocytochemical techniques on blood samples from HLA-DR1- and DR4-positive donors. The two antigens are preferentially located at different regions of the cell surface: HLA-DR1 is preferentially associated with the lymphocyte membrane bulges (distal clusters), while HLA-DR4 is preferentially associated with the proximal clusters. These results demonstrate that HLA-DR1 and HLA-DR4 have distinct spatial distributions on the lymphocyte membrane.

As it turns out, the girl wasn't actually a girl, and the best-selling book wasn't actually a novel. It was a book. One that had sold millions and millions of copies in China alone. And, according to several high-ranking company executives and two Wall Street analysts, in some of the largest frauds in the history of the book industry. The revelation came on Thursday, when the Chinese publisher of The Bible, Global Media, disclosed in a filing to the Shanghai Stock Exchange that the book was really about a boy, and that all those millions of copies of a book that purported to be the history of the Christian faith — were really a fabrication. That boy is Qinan Qun, whose story is told in China's version of the Bible. Qun is a young boy who finds a magic Bible under a cabbage patch in his courtyard and learns, through the book, that he must defeat a dragon to become the emperor of China and save his father from execution. After that, the boy
