Disclaimer: Ebooks in pdf format are not available for download on this website. Ebooks in epub format .A common problem in the field of microelectronic components is the configuration of interconnecting lines to the bond pads of the components. Typically, the bond pads are configured on the components in rows and columns, for example, on a semiconductor chip. These bond pads are then connected to the interconnecting lines or portions of the interconnecting lines by various techniques. Often, the bond pads are connected to the interconnecting lines by wire bonding. After wire bonding, a passivation layer of an electrically insulative material is applied on the top surface of the semiconductor chip. One of the problems that may occur with this type of passivation layer is that a residue of the passivation layer may be left on the side of the wire bonds. The residue is detrimental to the performance of the semiconductor component since it affects the operation of the component.
