default eclipse keyboard layout for all users? I have an issue with eclipse when I type " or '@'. For some reason I don't know, eclipse doesn't like these characters and it inserts them as if I was trying to type a '&' How can I change the configuration to make sure that it uses the '&' instead? A: It sounds like you have an X-Platform and you are trying to do JDT related changes. These buttons on the Eclipse side should work Preferences -> Java -> Editor -> Syntax Coloring Preferences -> Java -> Editor
-> Content Assist Preferences -> Java -> Editors -> Content Assist -> Advanced If you aren't doing anything JDT related go to Help -> Eclipse Marketplace -> Available Software -> Installation and search for JDT. You will need to select Eclipse for Java Developers. If you don't want to do this you can use Preferences -> General -> Editors -> Text Editors -> Override Characters If you are doing JDT changes only, don't change this screen. If you want to change the Override Characters screen try the following: Preferences -> Java -> Compiler -> Content Assist -> Override Characters If you are doing JDT and want to change the JDT (Standard JDT) then you can't. You need to override JDT Preferences -> Java -> Compiler -> Override Characters I think if you are just trying to change the keyboard shortcuts for something like XML you can just right click and select a different keyboard shortcut and Eclipse will use the new shortcut

Uploaded by: Christian Barreto; 0; 0. November 2019; PDF.The invention relates to a semiconductor device including an SOI substrate having a single crystal layer and an insulating film formed on the single crystal layer. The invention also relates to a semiconductor device having a semiconductor element provided on an SOI substrate. Examples of the SOI substrate include a silicon substrate having a single crystal silicon layer and an insulating film formed on the single crystal silicon layer. An SOI layer which is a single crystal silicon layer is provided as an active layer for the semiconductor element. An SOI substrate itself is formed by bonding a single crystal silicon substrate to a single crystal silicon substrate. In contrast, an SOI layer is not bonded to a substrate because there are no materials which can bond the single crystal silicon substrate and single crystal silicon layer. For this reason, there is a problem that the silicon layer is not supported by the substrate. As one example of a method for solving this problem, a technology has been proposed in which an SOI layer is formed over a buried oxide film which is an insulating film formed on a bulk single crystal silicon substrate. The SOI substrate is formed by bonding a single crystal silicon substrate and single crystal silicon layer to each other. In addition, the buried oxide film is formed between the single crystal silicon substrate and single crystal silicon layer. The single crystal silicon layer is used as an active layer for the semiconductor element. The single crystal silicon substrate is used as a support substrate. This will be described below with reference to drawings. FIG. 7 is a cross-sectional view of an SOI substrate according to the related art. FIG. 7 illustrates a process of forming a semiconductor device according to the related art. In the drawing, reference numeral 1 indicates a bulk single crystal silicon substrate, 2 indicates a buried oxide film, 3 indicates a single
