Slurkum has a well-rounded crafting system. Picking up raw material is as easy as a few clicks using a work station, and can be quite the lucrative trade. That said, crafting these resources into usable items is the way to go for less-skilled players. Aiming for crafts that produce significant stamina/damage or energy are generally the best choices. =Basic Crafting= Craft a Workstation to turn tree and wood planks into planks - work station requires grass and wood Craft an Alchemist's work station to turn ores and metals into ingots- requires coal, metal and stam Craft a Fishing Workstation to catch fish - requires water, skill and stam Craft a Cook's Workstation to make food from food items - requires food type, skill and stam Craft an Alchemy Workstation to make potions or tinctures- requires potions or tincture materials, skill and stam Craft an Oak tree to create better crafting gear, or to make certain buildings- requires leaves, skill and stam =Alternate Techniques= Energizing Agitator - (Frost- Create a Frost X-ray Weapon.) Animal Sacrifice (Bloodless) - (Harpy- Create a Poison X-ray Weapon.) Harpy Raid- (Harpy- summon an invulnerable Flying Harpy to attack the surrounding area.) Restorative - (Sage- Restores Health up to 3 times.) Fate - (Oracle- Destroys items within a radius.) Weapon - (Dragonaxe - Uses the dragon's ability to fire breath for each successive hit.) A: If you don't mind using the "pre-canned" parts of the game you could consider downloading the Dawning Star addon. It adds quite a bit to the game and includes some custom modifications. Section: Extra Content Page: 18 By: Lendel Landon Chapter Text A barrage of arrows flew. Marley and her team were ducking and contorting themselves in a way that would have seemed almost comical had they been able to see it. Yet, despite their speed and agility, they were relatively easy prey. "S-so, that's it? It's that easy? Man, just take us out and you can rest easy! And like you care after all of this!" A fervour of fury swelled inside Arsin, suppressed rage balanced on the brink of releasing itself. However, with all of this target practise on the side of an ally, he knew that it would only hinder him. "None of that! While it may be trivial for you, you don't know what it's like for Marley! She and her team have dedicated their entire lives towards this! It's what she keeps people together! It's who she is!" With a cry, Jackson threw himself on top of the figure lying in the mud next to her. Not sure why he could trust these strange people or not, but he figured if he could do something that would make a difference, he should do it. It could also be said that in his eyes, Marley was easy prey... "Don't worry, Jackson! We'll take care of her! Don't you worry!" The words of his partner resonated through his ears, an overwhelming aura of trust and courage, anchoring him as he stood, chin up. Like the blast itself, the shot tore through the air towards the forest, as the thing that would devour Marley and her compatriots leapt from the shadows in pursuit. The once-dead forest awoke, slowly returning to its true form. Following their fresh bodies, their shadowy forms followed them into the forest's depths. Not long after, they arrived at another small outpost of Steamstone, a clearing similar to those that they passed for over a week. This did not bother Arsin; he was familiar with these kinds of bases. They hid the bulk of their forces and simply used small bases as ideal locations to retreat to while they battled against Juniper. But, the forest itself contained a threat. If this invasion wasn't quelled before it reached the Grand Line, it would follow suit. To protect those on the Grand Line and the very concept of the Guild War itself would require more
