Gare, the legendary wireframe arena shooter with mazes, is back!

Gare Sapphire Mechs combines the aesthetics of Tron, the gameplay of the venerable arena shooter genre, the mazes of Berserk, and those Mechs everyone seems to be so fond of, to create an action game definitely worth your time. Mechanics • All Mechs have an entire suite of upgradeable abilities • Upgrade can be done during an arena match • All Mechs can be purchased with real-world money • Mechs have a strength value • All abilities increase the Mechs' strength value • Unlike other shooters, whenever a Mech is hit, the hit counter goes down by one, making for a more tense, on-the-edge feeling. • Reinforcements in the form of Mecha and Target Buffs appear as a mystery during a match • Ground and airborne Combat ABILITIES • Sphere-based: damage can be spread over a large area • Line-based: damage can only be taken by a single body part or targeting device, such as a specific face, a specific weapon, or a certain eye. • Sidekick-based: damage can only be taken when the Mech is in a specific range • Shield-based: damage can only be taken by a certain body part of a mech. • Status effects: ability that affects a Mech's opponent • Spectator mode • Numerous arenas • More than 30 unique boss fights • Mechs and battlegrounds have different energy types, each indicated by a different colour to make energy management easy • The titular Gare is a pack of seven enemy boss Mecha, when defeated the player may face the final battle • The titular Gare is voiced by Antonio Fargas in the Spanish version of the game. • Other bonuses and features not listed Story Mode • Gare is another arena shooter released by Game Life and inspired by the classic arena shooter genre. • In Gare, the Mechs are controlled through a new style of gameplay, allowing for a multitude of ways to attack, defend, and use special abilities. • In this mode, the player cannot purchase any Mechs except Mecha, and can select to begin a match in a maze or in the titular Gare, a 6 by 12 grid where the enemy Mecha are awaiting. • There is a team of 3 Mechs in each match, with 2 Mechs in the attack
