Radiant Ascent is an amazing VR Art Application. It contains a small-yet-powerful blend of art, music, physics, and code. You will be amazed at the many visual effects you can generate using the Spectral Decomposition Neural Network. The creator, Gene Saylor, has blended art and neural networks together and this is a rare blend. You can change the intensity, hue, saturation, and more using the sliders, that transform the whole visual experience in the HMD. You have the potential to create a nearly infinite number of unique experiences. The user will be able to control many of these parameters. Download link for the package in a zip file contains the following: • Radiant Ascent application • all experimental video art Visualizations made with the Neural Network, incl. Hardware-Video-Modulation experiments. • Artistic Video Projections using Spectral Decomposition of videos with audio signal • Art Gallery with over 60 paintings in a zip file • 13 Swimming Aquatic Creatures in a zip file • 3D Textures for the Art Gallery • Option to replace or add text to the water and texture Recommended specs • Windows 7 / Windows 10 • Oculus Rift • QX1 • Razer Vixen OC • HTC Vive • Valve Index (currently not supported) Endorsements: TopAZ The creators of Brainquake & Audiosurf use Radiant Ascent for most of their visualizations. A: In the context of VR, Radiant is a good candidate for using OpenVR. From the OpenVR GitHub repository OpenVR-based VR devices have trouble rendering a lot of traditional 2D art. OpenVR is a head-tracked device and requires the user’s head to be stationary to ensure tracking works correctly. That being said,

Leave a comment with your favorite trick! @stealthagent on Twitter When Steve woke up, he didn’t know why he was in a hospital bed. He simply jumped to the wrong conclusion — he’s been drugged and abducted by Joe Bradley. But instead of him being the target, Steve himself has been targeted. For his unwitting part in a highly illegal cover-up involving Mark Hemmeler, Steve’s life is on the line. If you’re looking for the bloodiest game of choice, you might want to start with Bloodborne! At 40g and a 4A rating, it might not be the game for the faint of heart, or it may not be the right game for your family. Bloodborne also features an optional vomit-inducing difficulty mode, so be warned! There are many elements that make Bloodborne a unique experience, including the Pitter, who offers a bit of assistance on your journey. Not only does he help you track down the other members of the group that snatched you, he also provides some help when it comes to taking control of the dangerous and twisted monsters that await in the Dark City! And when things really get out of hand, you can always just pour a handful of salt or pepper on your victims. About This Game: Take a harrowing journey into the depths of the Dark City — a man-made underground labyrinth populated by the indescribably diabolical gothic monsters that pervade it. As Isaac, a young man who has been thrust unwillingly into this nightmarish world, you’ll have to carefully navigate the twisted streets, solve the puzzles, and uncover the secrets of the Dark City in order to escape. You’ll need to make use of your item at your disposal as well c9d1549cdd

Recently, pulsed electric fields (PEFs) have been demonstrated to be effective in producing solid or porous films. Since characteristic cellular structures of the films are essential for controlled release of drugs, the effects of PEFs on the characteristics of the films are explored. An aqueous sugar syrup solution was fed through a 400 microm capillary tubing at a fixed flow rate of 6 mL/min to a two-jet nozzle. This was then followed by extrusion of the continuously formed thin film inside a home-built 250 kV electroporator. The solution was pulsed with square-wave pulses with a duty cycle of 50% of the pulse duration, a pulse width of 0.2 ms, and a gap of 0.05 ms at two constant temperatures, 25 degrees C and 65 degrees C. All sugars except sucrose were able to produce regular films upon contact with the atmosphere. PEF did not affect film stability, dry matter content, melt viscosity, or film porosity. PEF generally caused a decrease of about 10 kPa in film porosity (pore size). PEF also caused the pore numbers to approximately decrease with field strengths in a nonlinear fashion, suggesting that pores tend to be destroyed by the cavitation formed around the pore walls.In the past few years, San Franciscans have seen an influx of Chinese from all across China – from schools and businesses alike – and this week they will be on a nostalgic journey over the past 49 years.
