PLANETARY EXPEDITION - As your Lander moves towards a possible New World, the sky starts to fill with colorful rocketships. Ambitious colonists will be itching to get in on the action. SMALL LANDER - Once you reach the New World, you'll take on the role of a single astronaut, trying to build a functioning colony and make the journey back. HOW FAR WILL YOU TRY? THE LANDER'S TOWARD A NEW EXODUS When the rocketship finally arrives, and the world looks brighter and brighter, what is it that holds the colonists back?Their’s is a difficult challenge that, upon completion, allows for you to start building a new Exodus ship with all its great benefits. A new Exodus ship will provide new properties to equip and a cargo hold for additional colonists and supplies. To build a new ship you will have to first of all get to the New World by means of your Lander. After you have landed on the new planet you will have to build a functional colony and await additional resources. Upon the arrival of new colonists, you will be able to play your first Spaceport game. This DLC takes the concepts introduced with the last release and expands their scope, functionality and makes them accessible to smaller institutions like clubs. Developers' Notes: The Next World Rocketship content was designed as an additional feature that can be enabled for any campaign created on TNW (not a stand-alone add-on) and will provide the player with a set of rocketships to be deployed at the end of a campaign. The decision to distribute these resources more broadly and enable this content for all campaigns was made in order to give every TNW player access to the Rocketship content. We started the design process by examining the more traditional type of rocketships that are available in the core game. The objective was to increase the player’s choice in selecting the type of rocketship and to expand the possibilities for creating small bases from the ones that are available in core. In addition, we were also looking at making rocketship abilities, equipment, resource and power management more accessible and modifiable for smaller institutions like clubs and games societies. The design process included the development of new rocketship abilities and new rocketship equipment. During this process it became apparent that these new abilities, when combined with some basic decisions in the base game, could allow the creation of a new set
