Excellent tool which scans the files while preserving the previous selected file. When files are found it shows a scan progress. Could see the name of the process which scanned the file as well as most of its other function. This is a really good app! It does exactly what it claims to do and does it well! I also like the fact that it comes with a portable version (excellent port). Main differences between this and the others are: - It does not leave a trace on the computer. I don't want my registry cleaned up on restart (which is true of the others). - It does it's job in a more immediate manner as well! I don't like waiting for 1 hour for a scan to complete (which is the default) to know whether or not something is bad! I also like how the scan details are shown in the browser. That is a lot better than having a popup take up the screen or cluttering up the taskbar. If only it did something in addition to scanning, that would be the one! But it does a good job and that is enough for me. I like that it doesn't clear the registry after the scan. I don't want any traces to remain, otherwise I get shut down and shut out. This tool is quick and efficient and does exactly what it claims to do! I would highly recommend it to anyone who likes a quick, first and sometimes second opinion of a file they're looking at online. Here are the issues I had: I am using Windows 8.1 and I had installed this tool. I first used the portable version and it was good. Then, the original version was installed. I remember that the names of the processes weren't put in the task bar because the portable version didn't have the option to keep the names of the processes. I think this option was added and I had to re-install the tool. I didn't notice that the scan process takes a lot of time (I probably should have noticed that before). I think this is because some antivirus tools are sort of superfast or super slow. I was downloading files when the scan process got completed and I didn't notice it until hours later. This was the only thing I noticed that really made me want to uninstall the program. I believe it went to the wrong place to store the files that it downloaded. Therefore, when I checked that after restarting my computer, it couldn't find

The Flash Player is a proprietary multimedia player developed by Adobe Systems. When it comes to protecting security of systems, most of the online security providers allow Flash apps and SWF files to run inside their products. The Flash Player is great at providing access to a wide range of content on the internet. However, it is also the most dangerous of all content, so it's very important to keep an eye on it and protect the security of our computers. This is why many antivirus applications provide tools to disable or remove Flash Player, but the question is how to safely delete it and how to
