A: Start with a simple Python script like: `import sys def main(): if len(sys.argv) > 1 and sys.argv[1] == '-p': sys.stdout.write(sys.stdin.read()) else: print "Filename:", sys.argv[1] with open(sys.argv[1]) as fp: print "".join(map(lambda s: s, fp.readlines()[0].split())) if __name__ == '__main__': main()` Then use the script: `> python script.py -p somedir/filename.txt` If there is a blank line in the file, the script will leave it blank when you run the script. UPDATE: I also had a simple idea about a solution using external program, but it seems the.txt files are not in a format you can easily process in a script like that. Anyway, here it goes: Dump the contents of your.txt file to a temp file. Of course, you will then need to delete that.txt file: `> python -c "import os, sys; fp = open('temp.txt','w'); os.system(r'dump -H somedir/filename.txt > temp.txt' if '-p' in sys.argv else r'dumtmp')"` Now go ahead and delete that temporary file: `> rm -f temp.txt` You should now have a binary dump of your.txt file. You should be able to use this binary dump with a tool like strings to get the same effect as the small Python script solution: `> strings temp.txt | grep -E '^\.{11}$'` A: I often use `sed -e '1!{/;$/s;/ /g;s/(.) (.)\3\4;/e}' *.txt` where the "." means any number of characters, and the e (extended regex) statement handles any number of 0cc13bf012

A: Actually it depends on website. Different websites have different limits on number of characters they allow for a single form. You can try uploading some large text and see what happens. Q: Matrix

Multiplication in python I just have a quick question about multiplying two matrices. I did not find anything online, my question is: If i do this: `import numpy as np A=np.random.randn(3,4)`

`B=np.random.randn(4,5)` for i in range(0,4): for j in range(0,5):

`C[i][j]=A[i][0]*B[0][j]+A[i][1]*B[1][j]+A[i][2]*B[2][j]+A[i][3]*B[3][j]` Is it "the same" as doing this:

`D=np.zeros((3,5))` for i in range(0,4): for j in range(0,5):

`D[i][j]=A[i][0]*B[0][j]+A[i][1]*B[1][j]+A[i][2]*B[2][j]+A[i][3]*B[3][j]` Thank you all :) A: D =

`np.zeros((3,5))` for i in range(0, 4): for j in range(0, 5): `D[i,j] = A[i,0]*B[0,j] + A[i,1]*B[1,j] +`

`A[i,2]*B[2,j] + A[i,3]*B[3,j]` You are doing a full matrix multiplication, putting the value in D. The first for loop basically goes like this: for i in range(0,4): for j in range(0,5): `A[i][0]*B[0][j] + A[i][1]`
