INE ROUNDUP. The scoop on the other side of the counter from a food preparer in a busy cafe more than 40 years ago. Today, in this paper, Laurence Knatten Gorman presents a tale of creativity and persistence as he takes us back in time to inspect the menu at Bignell's cafe in the Eastbourne newspaper, The Ockendon Times. It is with great pleasure that I see that The Ockendon Times at the time of my mum's farewell lunch week before Christmas is advertising Bignell's, in fact calling it Bignell's Cafe. It had been Bignell's Coffee Bar, but the cafe has become so popular, that she thought people preferred to sit down and have a coffee rather than ordering in. I am often informed that my mother opened the cafe, and that is correct, but my mum's engagement with the new business was to serve the customers, from the advertised opening of 8am till about 8pm. All friends and family of my mother would be saddened to hear that she is retired. Bignell's would also be disappointed to hear that her life is in danger, and she has been unwell, and is now at home, blind and unable to hear any longer and needs constant care. I will give a brief report as to how I arrived at this article, and carry on from there. As I say, this particular cafe stands out in my memory for having been the most popular meeting place for all my mother's friends and acquaintances in the town. Those living on the edge of Eastbourne even used to drive across the Rother Valley to come and dine at Bignell's. In memory, one can hardly find a small eatery any more where you could so sit down, have a coffee, and be able to catch up with friends in your corner. Thus, it is with pleasure that Bignell's Cafe re-opened recently after refurbishment. This has been made possible by a long-term relationship with the owner of Crown Norfolk, like-minded proprietors, coming together to support an Eastbourne business. The old Bignell's sign on the premises, to many, was an attractive one. Having lived in Eastbourne for 42 years, I have been there so often in my life for both professional and social purposes, that I have a

In this amazing side-scrolling platformer, the ultimate objective is to collect enough coins to buy the best power-ups and then rescue all the Princesses from their kidnappers and return them home. The world consists of over 30 challenges to overcome, each with its own unique gameplay style. You can control the gameplay with the WASD or Arrow keys for movement, or assign a keyboard button to activate an ability as you move through each level. You can grab up to 3 different power-ups at a time, and switch between them for that extra edge on the next level. And if you're not careful enough to grab the correct power-ups, you'll end up losing all of them! It is difficult, you might die. First of all I love this game, very amazing game even though it a tad weird at times it really is a very good game and I always see this game getting a revival and I don't know why but I think it is worth it and to me if someone wants to get to the top of Reddit Game here is your chance do it because I promise you that this game is the funniest game on the internet lol and to me, this game is like the Harvest Moon more than anything I mean it's a very fun game to play and I think this game deserves to be played and to keep on playing it until the end and I think this game is an amazing game I think it is way better than Mass Effect 3 and I actually I want to play Mass Effect 3 but I can't because this game is way better and I recommend that you play this game it is the funniest game on the internet and is fun to play and I think this game is a very good game i really enjoyed the game! it was hilarious! especially on the pig level. the music was great. the controls were pretty easy. also the platforms were great. BUT it did lack replayability. like...10 levels is way too short. also, at the end of each level there was a warning that there would be an optional (and lengthy) boss fight. but the boss was not challenging at all. it just caused for the game to end. a couple times it got frustrating because I died, found one of the medals, got out of the game, and then the game was over. even at the end of the game, I couldn't get the medals without a restart. it would have been more fun to be able to play with a friend and beat the game together.
