Field of the Invention The present invention relates to an image processing apparatus that processes an image signal that is supplied from a digital still camera, scanner, facsimile, or the like and stores the processed image signal in a storage unit. 2. Description of the Related Art There is a digital still camera (hereinafter, “camera”) that receives image data sent from a digital still camera and displays the received image data in a display device. Further, there is a digital still camera that receives image data read out from a memory card and records the received image data on a recording medium, such as an IC memory card, from which it can be rewritten. There is a method in which, upon receipt of image data, if a storage area of the image data is not sufficient, the image data is compressed and is stored in a storage device (see, for example, Patent Reference 1). On the other hand, the digital still camera has been improved in quality in recent years. Accordingly, an image can be expressed more vividly, for example, a more detailed image can be expressed. However, in the digital still camera, it takes much time to perform many operations, such as an operation of taking an image, a RAW-reading operation, and a compression operation. Therefore, a problem arises in that if an attempt is made to obtain a high-quality image, a long time is needed from the instant at which an operation is started until an image is obtained. Crimson: Ad blocker for Chrome,Â . 15 Mar â€” on the Wondershare Dr.Fone for MacÂ . You are right about the recovery rate, I have tried it on my Windows 10 PC and got the same result - it still took 1 hour and a half to scan the 800Mb of data. I´m not telling it´s a bad product, please don´t put words in my mouth! I don´t want to hurt the company´s feelings, Â I just want to let the users know what they are dealing with, this is an honest opinion. I am a data recovery expert, I use pc and mac to do my work and I´m telling you what I find, not the stuff I want you to believe or accept. Good news: Dr.Fone solves all problems with your Wi-Fi connection. The Wi-Fi is a very common modem and it will affect the performance of the transfer. Bad news: The Wi-Fi connection will go on and off. The device will freeze on specific transfers and it will be interrupted, which will lead to loss of data.
