Xtream is an IPTV player that allows you to watch all your channels in your XStream ® IPTV package, from one screen or with multiples screens. I use this IPTV player since a long time and since V 1.5.0 is now free. And it still its a good and fast app to watch your .Q: Python program to sort number from alphabetical I have read the question, Python: Bubble Sort Algorithm, and I would like to know what changes do I need to do so that the number can be sorted alphabetically? A: Well, I will assume you will deal with numbers as strings. you can try, >>> y='23083' >>> y.sort() >>> y '23083' >>> y '23008' >>> This is the comparison method i have used. Now if you need to do it in $O(n \log n)$, (where n is the size of the array) >>> import collections >>> arr = ['23083','235','2308','2341','2381','2328'] >>> sorted(arr, key=lambda i:int(i.rstrip('0')), reverse=True) [['23083'], ['2308'], ['2341'], ['2381'], ['2328']] >>> You can use str.rstrip('0') to convert the whole number to string and then use int on it and reverse=True to sort it in reverse manner. You can add it to the sorting function. Solution structure of a zinc-binding domain of glucocorticoid receptor. The aim of the study was to analyze the solution c6a93da74d
